I am living in New Zealand on a Working Holiday Visa from 2nd October 2024

Objectives

Having started learning coding in March 2024 I am now in a position where I feel ready to find work in Website Development. During my time studying I have used FreeCodeCamp and SheCodes to develop my skills in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, React and Bootstrap. I now feel confident in my abilities to build and design websites and am excited to use and develop these new skills. I have worked in GitHub, VS Code and Netlify during this time and feel comfortable using them and am willing to learn any new programs/languages necessary.

Experience

Stewardess on a Super Yacht October 2019 – May 2024

M/Y Radiant, M/Y Predator, M/Y Here Comes the Sun, M/Y Ulysses

Prior to seeking a career in Web Development I spent 5 years in the yachting industry. My role as a stewardess involved housekeeping and service to both crew and guest areas onboard the vessel. As well as this my day-to-day roles included some administration such as stock lists, ordering, task management and designing posters/menus. I was also the on-board florist and yoga teacher.

Apprentice Administration September 2014 – October 2015

The Invisible Assistant

After completing sixth-form college I went on to obtain an NVQ Level 2 in Business and Administration. I worked alongside the 2 managers of a start-up outsourcing company. During my time there I developed skills in programs such as Excel, Word, Xero, PowerPoint, MailChimp and Hootsuite. I managed social media accounts and email accounts for other small companies, processed bookings, created presentations and some data analysis for a surveying company as well as basic bookkeeping for various start-up companies.

As well as this I have worked in hospitality and retail from the age of 16 and have also written freelance travel blogs and maintained a travel website for around 6 months while travelling Australia.
